Problem We have contracted with August Associates of Dallas TX to support rapid prototyping work. One near-term task is to develop a Java client interface to the Illustra performance benchmark. This is very time-critical, as it to be shown at CDR. They need to have access to one of our ECS licenses for one year's time in order to provide this and other deliverables to us.
Proposed Solution We have purchased 37 licenses for Release B Science Data Server. It has been stated by the onsite Illustra consultant that it is all right to move licenses from platform to platform if necessary for short periods of time. The Illustra product does have a license key that has to be generated at their site in California, so it is not possible to continue using the product after one year if the key were generated for that period of time. I propose that we move one license to August Associates for one year's time for the work contracted. The will be running on IRIX 5.3 at their site and can ftp the actual software from Illustra. .
